REFLECTION

Presentation of the Lord

Just before the summer I was invited to go to the graduation ceremony for Falmouth and Exeter University at Truro Cathedral. I arrived early and went to get my academic robes along with all the other lecturers. As you probably know one wears a very strange hat which will get thrown in the air when the photos are taken. The person cloaking me perched the hat on my head and told me not to touch it. As we processed, I can remember being told by a lecturer when I was at university; “Anthony you are not the brightest student, but you will get there in the end!” As I was processing into the Cathedral, I wished that lecturer could have seen me.

As I was sat there amongst all the Doctors and professors and seeing the graduates coming up one by one being presented to the Chancellor, I wondered what their lives would be like and what they would end up doing. I suddenly realised that I was now an equal with that lecturer from all those years ago and was now sitting in a seat that he would occupy if he was present. Maybe his remark all those years ago was a compliment, rather than the negative I took it to be.

When Jesus is presented at the Temple, Simeon has his wish fulfilled when he holds him in his arms. Anna, as well, meets Jesus and has her wishes fulfilled. Jesus brings light into the world and gives everyone the belief and confidence that they can achieve many great things. So, on this feast day let us thank God for the many graces he has given us.
