REFLECTION

Reflection for the Twenty fifth Sunday year B

I can remember attending an awards evening at School and all of my friends were getting called up to be presented with their awards. As the evening went on, it became apparent that the likelihood of me getting anything was evaporating. The evening ended and I was walking out empty handed. I can remember thinking that this was not fair, I had tried my best, and had achieved good grades and yet, wasn’t being recognised.

Life can sometimes be a bit like this, we try our best and yet we don’t get the recognition we think we deserve. Yet it doesn’t mean we give up because we know God see’s all. In the Gospel the Disciples are arguing because they know that one of them will have to take over as leader when Jesus is put to death. Jesus has told them he is to suffer and already they are looking to the future.

The answer Jesus gives to the Disciples is to embrace a child and tell them that these are the people they must lead. Jesus knows that a community must embrace the youth or the community will die.

People may complain saying that “Father” does too much for the youth! But they are our future and if we do not nurture them and encourage them now, then what does our future look like.

Here in Newquay we are blest with a welcoming and caring community for all. The duty for us adults is to care for the youth, the duty of the youth is to give us energy and to care for the adults. It is only through working together can our community grow.
