They left everything and followed him

In today's Gospel we hear Jesus telling his disciples to "put out into deep water and pay out the nets." This result is in the fisherman catching a huge amount of fish, they are then told that in future they will catch people.

I can remember trying to drive a boat, many years ago, when I was on holiday down on the Lizard, I had a boat full of children and their mother. I said I knew what I was doing. When we came into a bay I put the anchor over the side to stop the boat, however, despite turning the engine off the boat kept going towards the rocks. The children started screaming, so I did the only thing I could think of, which was to dive over the side of the boat grab the anchor and pull the boat away from the rocks! (Who needs Popeye?) I was the hero for the rest of the day.

One of the things about life, is that we can't always rescue every situation. There are times when we have to rely on God helping us. There are times we have to "put out into the deep" and trust in the providence of God. The one thing we can be sure of, is that we never go into the deep without God being by our side. When we have rocky times in our lives it is God who we cling to and trust that he will pull us to safety.
